v "And You clothed me with skin and flesh." In other words: Are * you not One who has given proof of such great love of man, such great wisdom? For if Job indicates the constitution of man in detail, it is to demonstrate that, man is, . nothing. n "And Your oversight has preserved my spirit" For it is.

"The flesh'' is often used, in Scripture for the fleshly appetites; and nothing could have the same kind of mortification, would lower a man's spirits, so as to take from him all Job i. and ii. 1. 5. - (All flesh, means all men)- so 1 Cor. vii. troubles in the Flesh, Mr. Locke This mortification, if it took a right Book IV.

In the morning they were like grass which grows up, but in the evening it was cut down and withered. I would declare to Him the number of my steps; like a prince I would approach Him They die in youth, and their life perishes among the cult prostitutes

The desire of the poor is to receive help, and so is the desire of the widow. I can now sing before people and rejoice! But Satan cannot enter into even the Garden of Eden, not to mention the heavenly kingdom or before the throne of God. Then, what happened? But below the crust, inside the earth it is full of fire. It would be nothing strange, if that Message should be brought to us, This Year thou shalt die.
