They had two children, and later, grandchildren. So for example we were not maltreated or abused when the soup was served.

Pavel also founded a literary magazine, Nesar, which was no easy task, as he stated. Before arriving to the USHMM, I was already aware that I could not take books out of the library so I had concerns as to how I was going to manage to go through all of the books that I had on my list - a list that was bound to lengthen. In the evenings they walked the streets together until it was time to sleep. My grandfather was 91 years old and my grandmother Repeat them to your children. Before they left, Helga gave her diary and her diary gives readers a haunting look into the lives of Jews imprisoned in the Terezin Concentration Camp. My hope is that we left them with a greater willingness to explore the questions: Who am I, who is the Other, and what could exist between us?
