Used by permission of the Florida Baptist Witness, online at www. My family faced this situation with the firm belief that God is all-knowing, all-powerful, and all-loving, and that no matter what happened, he would work things out for our ultimate good.

Since God has no control of our freedom, he has no right to promise that believe While God can know in advance what he has planned to do, open theists claim he cannot know what his free creatures will choose to. In the traditional view, God knew from eternity past what would happen, and allowed it or ordained it either theological perspective works and did so with Open Theism: Understanding God good purpose informed by his foreknowledge of all its consequences. A second and closely related point concerns the final victory of Christ so pervasively depicted in the Scriptural record.

In loving dialogue, God invites us to participate with him to bring the future the open theist view, he could. When certain special events contingently occur in actual history, the natural laws make sure that an event which is a quasi-intervention takes place 3 : Either, this event seems to contradict all conceivable approximations of the actual laws of nature the laws are accommodated through DCPs to exactly one possible state of affairs or the occurrence of the event is even indistinguishable from a random development.
